

Desert Leveret

written by Kathy Hoopman
illustrated by Donna Acheson-Juillet

"Crouch down low my precious,
for the night has teeth and tongue."

With these words of wisdom, the mother hare begins her bawritten by's education. And with the unrelenting sun, shamaals, carnivores and humans to deal with, the little leveret has a lot to learn!

Beautifully illustrated with soft watercolors, this touching story of survival will leave you amazed at how a one day old leveret can learn more about the desert than most humans learn in a lifetime.