

Pierre's Adventures in Arabia: Searching for the Heart of Dubai

written by Janice Edgar

Pierre is a Canada Goose who spends most of his time on the shores of Georgian Bay in the province of Ontario, located in central Canada. He generally heads 'south' for the winter, but decided to alter his plans one year and landed in Arabia.

With the help of Faarasha Farhana, a painted lady butterfly, indigenous to the region, he sets off to find out what makes this part of the world unique - only to discover that, despite geographical and cultural differences, he and his new found friend, and their worlds, are a lot more alike than he first suspected.
